

Full-Time Faculty Position in English Language Program (ELP)

Introduction to SUNY Korea

SUNY Korea was established in March 2012 as the first American university system in Incheon, South Korea. In 2012, Stony Brook University, which is a prestigious university that represents the SUNY system, began to offer programs in South Korea as part of the Ministry of Education's decision to serve the transnational needs for quality and global education. In 2017, Fashion Institute of Technology, a world leading fashion school, joined the cause to offer their renowned programs at SUNY Korea.

Currently, SUNY Korea offers undergraduate and graduate degree programs in Computer Science, Mechanical Engineering, Technological Systems Management, Applied Mathematics and Statistics, Business Management, and Electrical Engineering from Stony Brook University (SBU), and associate programs in Fashion Design and Fashion Business Management from Fashion Institute of Technology (FIT). Students of SUNY Korea can expect to experience authentic American higher education by taking courses in both South Korea and the U.S.

Introduction to the English Language Program

In an increasingly globalized and connected world, strong communicative English skills are no longer optional. To meet this need, the SUNY Korea English Language Program (ELP), which consists of both the Program in Academic English (PAE) and Intensive English Center (IEC), has provided quality courses to develop students' communication skills, as well as their abilities to become successful learners and researchers at university and beyond, since 2012. The English Language Program provides students with an immersive English language environment at a world-class American university. Whether in or out of the classroom, students can develop their communication skills and make friendships that will last a lifetime.
